ANNIVERSARY OF WORLD WAR'S END OBSERVED

President Will Proceed Slowly In Second Term

Need For Emergency Action Is Over It Is Made Clear To Reporters

PROBLEMS WILL GET ATTENTION

No Immediate Innovations In Business Or Government Being Planned

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11. Faced with a new four-year term, and with economic conditions so vastly improved there is no immediate necessity for emergency legislation, President Roosevelt is going to take his own time in dealing with the multitudinous array of governmental problems confronting his second administration. He has made this amply clear to those who have talked with him since the election.

His hectic first term, beginning in the midst of an unparalleled domestic crisis, started off on a "Do It Now" motif. The guide-line for his second might well be phrased "What's the Hurry?"

Consequently, improving business may look forward to a period of relative calm—at least, as compared to the rush and bustle of the early days of the New Deal.

The president declared during the

PA NEW OBSERVES

Weather conditions today on the eighteenth anniversary are quite similar to those that existed here on Armistice Day, 1918, according to recollections of local residents.

Because of the fact that a proportion of the population observes today as a holiday, and "shuts up shop" for the day, there was quite a noticeable increase in the number of hunters afield in Lawrence county today.

New Castle and Lawrence county residents will be amazed at the gorgeous exhibition, and the huge extent of the displays at the flower show, now in progress at the Cathedral.

Game Warden Frank L. Coen reports that an unusually large take of ringnecks has been reported during the first few days of the hunting season, while about the usual kill of rabbits has been reported by hunters. More birds were released during the summer and there is now a good distribution of birds.

Today was one of the few Armistice days which was not rainy and disagreeable, a fact which was appreciated by the veterans for the parade today.

Snappy temperatures were noticed this morning and there was a heavy coating of frost on things. The mercury dropped to 20 degrees during the night.

All schools of the city are idle today, this being a scheduled holiday in the schools. The holiday was provided when the schedule was made up before the opening of school.

Daily Weather Report

U. S. weather statistics for the 24-hour period ending at 9 o'clock this morning follow:

Maximum temperature, 43.
Minimum temperature, 20.
Precipitation—trace, heavy frost.
River stage, 6.1 feet.

Statistics for the same date a year ago follow:
Maximum temperature, 58.
Minimum temperature, 51.
Precipitation, 12 inches.

Several close personal friends attended the dinner, served at Mrs. Simpson's mansion in Cumberland Terrace.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—A private and modest ceremony instead of a state affair with great fanfare will join King Edward VIII and Mrs. Wallis

Simpson of Baltimore in marriage next June.

In accordance with the young monarch's present wishes, the ceremony will take place in the chapel of Buckingham Palace and will be followed by the couple's attendance at some function in the city of London.

This will conform with the custom whereby a royal bridegroom traditionally presents his bride to his subjects, but the function will be of the sort usually associated with royal birthday celebrations and will not assume the nature of a stiff, formal occasion.

Some Problems Arise.

Fire Destroys Part Of Madrid As Battle Rages

Billows Of Smoke Pour Over City From Fires In Northwest Section

DYNAMITE USED TO HALT SPREAD

Mass Attack On Madrid Defenses Being Planned By Rebel Forces

By THOMAS A. LOATZA

MADRID, Nov. 11.—Beyond the billows of smoke welling up from the flaming northwest section of the city Rebel bombing airplanes ripped up Loyalist secondary trenches today in preparation for a determined mass attack, their deadly detonations mingling with the blast of dynamite used to stem the onmarching fires.

Whipped along by a brisk wind blowing directly into the city, the crackling fire gnawed a swath across two-score blocks, lighting up Madrid in a demoniac blaze reminiscent of San Francisco, by night, and continuing in a titanic Vesuvius by day.

Casualties Heavy
At this moment it is uncertain whether the dynamite will suffice—for there has been a water shortage in Madrid for months—and save this capital from the fiery fate of Moscow and Chicago.

In addition to the aerial attack, the rebels directed heavy artillery fire at the capital, searching out concentrations of Loyalist forces. Casualties were heavy.

Besides the big fire in the northwest section of the city, there were several minor blazes elsewhere, each one potentially dangerous.

The fire, spreading a tide of choking smoke over most of the capital, put a new face on the military situation, which had begun to swing against the rebels with the arrival of Loyalist reinforcements and the unexpectedly successful defense of the capital.

Says She Is One Of Finest Women He Has Ever Known

(International News Service)
SAN DIEGO, Cal., Nov. 11.—The first husband of Mrs. Wallis Simpson, reputed fiancée of England's King Edward, broke a self-imposed silence today to praise her.

From his hospital room where he is recovering from a broken leg, Commander Earl Winfield Spencer, executive officer of the U. S. S. Ranger said:

"She is one of the finest women I have ever known. She has one of the strongest characters of any woman I have been my pleasure to meet."

"I hold no ill feeling toward her. I wish her nothing but the best the world has to offer."

"My work took so much of my time I could not engage in the sports and social life which she loves so much and we gradually drifted away from each other."

"While in Colorado she was the center of the social set and attended all of the parties, most of them unaccompanied by me because of the pressure of my official duties. It was the gradual drifting away which led her to go to Europe in 1926 and obtain a divorce in Virginia in 1927."

Unknown Soldier's Tomb Scene Of Armistice Day Ceremony

PRESIDENT TAKES PART IN PROGRAM

By ROBERT G. NIXON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Eighteen years ago the thunder of cannon ceased, and the unearthly stillness of peace fell over a war-torn world.

Today, with a fervent prayer on its lips that war may never again come, the Nation bows its head in silent tribute to its heroic war dead.

President Leads The Nation
On a quiet Virginia hillside, near the Washington monument stands eternal vigil, President Roosevelt, who has summed up his hope of continued peace in the declaration: "I hate war," led the Nation in its solemn Armistice Day observance.

While the wheels of industry still their chatter and millions stand in reverent quiet for three minutes, President Roosevelt placed upon the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, in Arlington cemetery, a simple wreath symbol of the Nation's honor to those who died on the battlefield of France.

Graying but stalwart General John J. Pershing, general of the armies and chief of the A. E. F., received the wreath from the president's hand and laid it upon the white marble tomb beside the dreamy Fotomac, where, "known but to God" lies the soldier who symbolizes the Nation's world war sacrifice.

A brief address by Secretary of War Harry Woodring followed the president's Armistice Day proclamation.

The impressive annual exercises at Arlington will epitomize thousands of lesser Armistice Day observances throughout the Nation.

Flower Show Is Now Open

Cathedral Is Real Fairyland Of Flowers And Evergreens

THOUSANDS OF FLOWERS SHOWN

There is a fairyland in the Cathedral on Lincoln avenue. The ballroom and the dining room that you know have disappeared and in their places has sprung up a fairyland of flowers and evergreens, a beauty spot that unfortunately will last only until Saturday night. It is the flower show of the Northwestern Pennsylvania Florists' Association and to attempt to describe it is to use all the superlatives and finish by only half describing it.

One pinches himself to be sure he isn't dreaming and in his dreams has been transported to some fairy grotto where the elfs spend their days in beautifying their surroundings. Mirrors and lights accentuate the fantasy and as one roams from booth to booth and from display to display, there are new beauties to see and new enchantments to marvel at.

Wage Increase Status Here Is Involved

Speaking to the newly organized district council of steel workers in the Pittsburgh-Youngstown area, President Benjamin Fairless of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation said at Pittsburgh, on Tuesday, "the decision on granting the increase to those who do not sign the agreement must come from the New York officials of the corporation. I do not know whether those failing to sign will get the increase."

Since the announcement of the ten per cent increase to all workers in the steel and tinplate mills, 11 of the 19 plants operated by the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation have accepted the increase, it is announced.

Under the terms of the increase agreement announced the corporation would adjust wages on a sliding scale which would fluctuate with the cost of living. This plan has been approved by President Franklin D. Roosevelt and is said to have worked equitably in plants where it has been tried.

Just what the effect will be in plants where the increase agreement is not accepted is not known as yet.

New Jersey Police Hunt For Estranged Husband Of Slain Beauty

AUTOMOBILE IS FOUND ABANDONED

(International News Service)
RED BANK, N. J., Nov. 11.—Discovery of the bullet-riddled body of a titian-haired beauty huddled in a gutter in the outskirts of this town today sent police on a search for her estranged husband, who vanished immediately after the killing.

The murder victim was identified as Mrs. Nellie Mills, 23-year-old drug store clerk, who was separated 3 weeks ago from her husband, Ralph Mills, 28, pressman on a local newspaper.

Five Bullet Wounds
Mrs. Mills' body was discovered by a policeman, who rushed her to a hospital, but she had been dead more than half an hour. Autopsy showed five bullet wounds, two through the heart, two through the body and one through the right eye. The police theory was that she had been killed in an automobile, and the body thrown into the street.

Her husband, police said, was seen fifteen minutes after their estimated time of the killing, driving his car at Long Branch, N. J., near here. The car was later found abandoned, with a flat tire but Mills had disappeared.

Armistice Day Is Observed By Local Veterans

Parade And Memorial Meeting At Penn Theatre During Morning

ADDRESS MADE BY W. J. CALDWELL

Wreath Is Placed On Public Square Memorial By Gold Star Mother

That deathless moment of eighteen years ago when the rattle of arms ceased along the western front was relived again today when the veterans of New Castle, along with their auxiliary organizations and friends, celebrated the Armistice. There have been larger celebrations, more colorful ones, but none that ranked today's in sincerity and reverence.

The celebration opened at 10:30 when the parade moved out from the Legion Home on North Jefferson street, thence over Falls and Mill to North, east to Croton avenue and thence down to Washington street and the public square. Heading the marchers were a police car and a cordon of officers, themselves veterans, a mounted platoon of Troop F, Chief Marshall John D. Kennedy and his aides and the Legion junior band. Back of them came the veterans of the World War, a few Spanish war veterans, American Legion auxiliary, Sons of the Legion, and the Croton band. Bringing up in the rear in automobiles were some automobiles carrying women for whom the war will never be over, mothers of men who died in service.

Place Wreath
At the public square a brief ceremony took place but in its brevity brought back the first Armistice in telling fashion. The members of the Legion, with color guard were drawn up about the west section of the public square. As the bells tolled eleven o'clock, Mrs. Anna Gorst, a member of the Gold Star Mothers, escorted by the commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Jonathan Stoner, placed a wreath upon the stone which memorializes the men of the World War. As the wreath was placed a bugler played taps, the flag went from half mast to the top of the pole and the band played the Star Spangled Banner.

Re-forming, the parade moved out to the Penn Theatre where the annual Armistice services were held. About 750 people attended. Ivor V. Davis, general chairman of the day's events acted as chairman of the service and asked Dr. J. J. McViney, pastor of the First Presbyterian church to offer the invocation. Seated on the platform were commanders of the various military organizations.

The speaker of the day was Attorney William J. Caldwell, who spoke upon "The American Ideal." It was an address most fitting to the day, and address that should have been heard by every citizen of New Castle for it smacked of genuine Americanism, it offered hope for the future and a challenge to every American to go forward in faith.

And I saw them today in civilian clothes, stouter a bit but say, the same old pep marked them just as of old, it's warm, forty-seven today.

LABOR PEACE TALK FADES

Labor Split Is Likely To Stay

Lewis' Committee Likely To Be Expelled From A. F. Of L. Ranks

CONVENTION TO OPEN AT TAMPA

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT
International News Service Staff Correspondent
TAMPA, Fla., Nov. 11.—Old guard, craft union forces of organized labor, opened preliminary annual sessions here today with a militant campaign to permanently expel John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization from the American Federation of Labor.
At the same time, these forces in their informal discussions revealed an unmistakable labor support for new legislation to replace, at least in part, the principles of the invalidated NRA.

These two developments provided highlights ahead of time for a three-day meeting of the metal trades department of the A. F. of L., which will itself convene for its 1936 meeting next Monday.

Peace Talk Gone.
Gone was A. F. of L.-C. I. O. peace talk of recent days as the metal trades assembled here. It was Armistice Day elsewhere, but here where the craft union ranks of the organized working man gathered, the talk was of war—war to the last ditch with the newly created minions of industrial unionism.

Metal trades sounded the warlike tocsins in their annual report. This document is a dangerous element, which has thrown open to "communism" the door to economic power in America, and defied all principles of trade union democratic rule.

And to add to this, the metal trades department president, John P. Frey, said sharply:

"I think there is very little left to do except expel the C. I. O. unions."

QUIET WEDDING, PLAN OF KING EDWARD VIII

and informality in his private as well as public life, certain delicate ceremonial problems concerning the status of his future royal consort remain to be settled.

These and other questions of a constitutional nature involving the throne and the church are being discussed in every detail.

In this connection, the king has been in consultation with a number of prominent persons on how best to bring before his subjects the matter of his intended marriage.

Efforts are being made to ascertain reaction of the British public not only at home but in Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa, with private emissaries entrusted with this task.

Mrs. Simpson's divorce will not become final for several months. Until it does, it is now considered possible any official or semi-official statement of the king's marital intentions will be made. The divorce becomes absolute about two weeks before the king's coronation in May, and it is not expected any announcement will be made until after he is formally crowned.

No Opposition.

A prominent member of the labor party, a former cabinet member expressed opinion today there will be no opposition to the marriage from the rank and file of British laborites or trade unionists. Labor throughout England is greatly attached to the king because they realize he is a monarch who understands better than any of his predecessors the problems confronting workers.

They regard the fact that he is marrying a commoner as an indication of his modernity and realistic vision.

This same leader holds the king's marriage would strengthen the bond between monarchy and ordinary people and would bury forever the idea of divine right of rulers.

Meanwhile, it was learned Mrs. Simpson, maintaining her reputation as one of the best dressed women in fashionable London, is purchasing a virtually complete new wardrobe.

She is choosing between the latest English and French fashions, modified to suit her own individual style.

During the past few days she has paid numerous visits to London dressmakers, selecting two or three and day clothes and some evening gowns and wraps, but deferring choice of the bulk of her evening wardrobe pending an early visit to Paris.

words. It surpasses anything you might have imagined. Thousands of all kinds of chrysanthemums, whistling beauties that seem to hold their heads up in their pride of quality. Huge mums that are the size of small cabbages, golden, bronze, white, lavender, all shades, and from them on down to the pom poms.

Roses that seem to speak of their aristocracy, giant clematis ferns that mask the walls and add a tropical touch to the scene. Huge fronds of palms, miles of smilax, tinsel and glass and evergreen trees, all of them joined together in a harmony of color and beauty that is a feast for the soul.

Many of the displays are the result of days of work. All of them are most attractive and it would be difficult to say which display should rank first, they are so different and all so very lovely.

Judges Busy

Judges began their work shortly after noon today and at 3 o'clock the doors were opened to the public. The show will continue each day from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. until Saturday night, when it closes.

The Works Progress Administration orchestra will be on hand each evening to add melody to the beauty and tonight a style show will be presented in which the proper flower adornment for all types of dress will be shown.

The show is not a commercial project with the florists. Should there be any profit accruing from the admissions, this will go to the American Red Cross, it was stated today.

New Castle citizens should not miss the opportunity to see this flower show. Nothing that has ever been held here can be compared to it and there will be nothing like it for some years to come.

Find Farmer Dead In Barn Tuesday

Takes Own Life By Hanging While Wife And Son Are Away From Home

Lemuel R. Snyder, aged 55, of North Beaver township, ended his life Tuesday afternoon, by hanging himself from the rafters of a small barn on their farm, during the absence of the other members of his family. Mr. Snyder had been in poor health for the past year and was said to have become despondent.

Mrs. Snyder and son Paul had come to New Castle about noon Tuesday to do some shopping, and on their return about 3 o'clock found a note on the kitchen table, stating that they would find his body in the barn. They began a search and found him hanging from the rafters.

Coroner Orville Potter was notified and went to the scene, where he cut the body down.

Mr. Snyder had been a resident of Mahoning township for the past 25 years. He had done a considerable amount of work during that time as a tool dresser in the oil fields.

Surviving are his wife, Edith May Snyder, the following daughters: Mrs. Hildred Pape, Hillsville, Mrs. Opal Beard, North Beaver township, and Mrs. Iva Penwell, of Bessemer, two sons, Alvin, Mahoning township, and Paul, at home, three brothers, John, of Franklin, Aleo, of Kennerdell, Pa., and Simeon, of Long Beach, Cal., the following sisters, Mrs. Lizzie Taylor, Mrs. Anna Tyttus, of Kennerdell, Mrs. Alice McKim, of Franklin, Mrs. Minnie Winslow, of Meadville, Mrs. Vinnie Seaton, of Cleveland, O., and Mrs. Ella Smiley, of Erie and eleven grandchildren.

the presence of communism in Russia, Mr. Caldwell said, "Communism has become the bogey of the age. I have little use personally for those who would combat it only with the use of abusive epithets, scareheads and statistics. If we are to defeat its propaganda effectively we must first know what it is, what it has to offer, and how it seeks to obtain its objectives. We must bring it into the open. The real answer to Communism is Americanism.

Communism is doomed to failure. The first reason lies in its attack upon religion. Of all the forces at the disposal of humanity faith has been the most tremendous. No civilization, no empire, no government has ever long endured when its peoples lacked an abiding religious faith.

It will fail because it makes almost total denial of the right of private property. These rights are of the very essence of Americanism and no social system can for long succeed that seeks to deny them. So long as America's differences can be settled with ballots and not bullets Americans need have no fear.

Armistice Day commemorates the supreme sacrifice of American youth. It is a day of dedication. Surely the faith can be no better kept than with a high resolve that the American Dream shall be fulfilled, that dream of a land where life shall be better and fuller and richer for every man with opportunity for each according to his ability and achievements.

Several orchestral numbers were presented by the Legion band. Dr. McVaine pronounced the benediction and the Armistice service was over for another year.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rain! to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sick and the world looks pink.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes three good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 10c.

MRS. W. H. MONTGOMERY IS AFTERNOON HOSTESS

Mrs. W. H. Montgomery proved a most gracious hostess Tuesday afternoon when she opened her Walmo home to associates of the Past Officers club of the Martha White Shrine, No. 14, for a luncheon-bridge. In addition to the usual club membership, she had five special guests, including Mrs. Fred C. Wolford, Mrs. Clifford Young, Mrs. George Ball, Mrs. Louis Klee and Mrs. Eugene Johnson, who also enjoyed the delightfully informal party.

The Montgomery residence, which is singled out as one of New Castle's loveliest homes, was beautifully decorated with bouquets of choice flowers of the season, adding color to the setting. The luncheon table, attractively set with Thanksgiving suggestions, had smart favors of individual leaf cups filled with nuts at each place, further carrying out the autumnal motif. In serving a delicious menu, the hostess was aided by Mrs. Eugene Johnson and Mrs. Louis Klee.

Bridge filled in the remaining hours, five table of players competing for top scores. It was discovered that Mrs. William J. Wray and Mrs. Claude Crane were winners of the pretty prizes. Plans for their next assembly were not completed.

THE EIGHTEENTH ANNIVERSARY

ALL the world over, hearts will be rejoicing this Armistice Day, anniversary of the cessation of hostilities in the World War. That was an event big and important enough to warrant the setting aside by law of one day a year to commemorate it. And it will be more important than now in the years to come when new generations will be forgetting or knowing only by reference to history of the momentous significance of that compact signed in the French woods bringing to an end a conflict that raged for four years and came closer to toppling civilization than any other event in modern history.

The natural impulse on Armistice Day is to enshrine deeper in the affection and admiration of the people the services rendered by the men and women who bore their parts in the struggle. There cannot be too much of that. For the American people or the people protected by the army and navy of any other nation to forget the sacrifices made would be hideous ingratitude.

Generations may get out of patience with the war veterans for this, that or the other thing, but as a group these veterans hold notes against the public which can and will never be paid in full. It is impossible to revive the dead and to restore the injured to full and self-same bodily vigor. No measure wholly wipes from memory the terror and squalor of the trench, the madness of the barrage, the torture of the wounded. These things are given beyond hope of adequate repayment and it is the nation's duty as it is its desire to show in every reasonable way its gratitude.

But that gratitude cannot confine itself to mere words and flag-waving. Like as not the "doughboys" and the "gobs" believe that their country is appreciative of their services, but what they want is for their countrymen to establish in practice the principles these fighting men went to the trench and the camp to uphold.

Those principles, envisage democracy, with all that word implies, the right of the people to rule, the sanctity of the ballot box so that the people can rule, the integrity in public office, the observance of law and the enforcement thereof, the preservation of the home, the contentment of the people.

CHICAGO TURNS BACK HER CLOCKS

By a two-to-one vote in which 1,500,000 ballots, the largest number on record for that city, were cast, the citizens of Chicago settled the vexatious time question, which has been even more confusing to strangers. Chicago will revert to Central time, under which it flourished for fifty-three years prior to March 1 this year.

On that date, by ordinance of city council, Chicago adopted Eastern standard time. But the railroads, by order of the Interstate Commerce Commission, continued to operate on Central time. The commission's jurisdiction in such matters is confined to the railroads. Last August it refused a petition by Chicago industrial and commercial interests to revoke its decision. The commission would not yield to the argument that Chicago's financial interests are so closely linked with those of the east as to necessitate the same time zone.

Rather inconsistently, the commission moved the Eastern time zone boundary westward from Detroit to the shores of Lake Michigan, stopping just short of Chicago. There is nothing to prevent Chicago from re-adopting daylight saving time next April, so that it will, in effect, operate under a time one hour faster than its railroads. But the people of Chicago by their votes have testified that their city council does not always represent their wishes.

If Spain expects to keep her audience in the United States, she would better bring that revolution to a climax before the opening of the World Series.

What some people seem to want is a government that is able to control nature, juggle the dollar, increase expenditures and reduce taxes at one and the same time.

WESTERN WILD LIFE

Those who have read Mark Twain's "Roughing It" will remember how many wild things he saw while riding atop the stage coach from the Missouri river to Reno, Nevada, and to this day people living east of the Mississippi, to say nothing of Europeans, have yet the idea that that part of North America is inhabited by Indians, Bears, Elk, Buffalo, Deer, Mountain Lions and all the wild things.

Members of service clubs still sing, "Home, Home on the Range, Where the Deer and Antelope Play," with great vim and gusto. They believe it. The truth is that outside the great National Parks very little wild game is to be found in the western states. Hunters have to travel far and into the roughest part of the Rocky mountains in order to find anything at which to point a rifle. Too often they point the weapon at each other in the mistaken idea that the object is a much sought buck.

The paved highways and rushing automobiles upon these great roads are responsible, no doubt, for the absence of wild life in the open

Armistice Day.
And the Self-Starter.
Industrial Samurai?
The Potentate's Aunt.
By ARTHUR BRISBANE

EIGHTEEN YEARS ago, November 11, 1918, the war ended and earth celebrated Armistice Day. More than TWO HUNDRED THOUSAND MILLION dollars, and twenty million lives had been sacrificed, wasted, worse than thrown away, many lives wiped out by disease, many of the billions wiped out by dishonesty and incompetency.

The wholesale murder sopped and the world each year celebrates the happy day, as though a criminal freed from prison should celebrate yearly the day on which he committed his last murder.

THE WORLD celebrates also, although many do not know it, an event more important than any connected with the butchery of human beings, namely, the invention of the self-starter for automobiles.

Today Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., gives a luncheon in honor of Charles F. Kettering, General Motors chief engineer, inventor of the self starter. Those old enough to remember "cranking" the car will call him blessed, and wish him many more years of hard thinking and useful inventing.

ANOTHER STRAW in the prosperity wind. The Youngstown Sheet & Tube company announces increases of 9 to 10 per cent in wages of plant employees, and office workers "in the lower salary brackets."

All these "raises" the public will pay, of course, what the employer spends in wages the consumer must spend in buying.

But, money is distributed, the standard of living goes up, the general public has greater buying power, and on that buying power national prosperity depends.

JOHN L. LEWIS, a powerful labor union personality, with strong face and strong will, will not meet Mr. Green, head of the American Federation of Labor, to discuss "getting together."

There are now two strong antagonistic union labor organizations, plus a few "outlaw" striking seamen, dockhands and others.

Some thought before the recent election that organized labor might become the real government of the United States, telling congress, the president, possibly the courts, what to do. The size of the recent vote would discourage that plan; it had nothing to do with any smaller group, not even as important a group as the 4,000,000 enrolled union labor men.

The big major split on labor's ranks, plus many little splits and (Continued On Page Five)

A CERTAIN SOUND IN THE NIGHT

THE FIRST TIME it happens it is terrifying.

All is quiet in the home. Baby is in bed. The house is settled down. Dinner is over. Dishes are washed. Young father and young mother are sitting in the living room, expecting an undisturbed evening. They've built a big fire in the living room. Nobody's coming in to visit. They're not going out. He's reading. She's doing a bit of mending. He finishes his paper and gets up to turn on the radio.

Suddenly, over their heads, they hear a bump. . . and then a long wail. . . "Good Lord, what's happened? It's the BABY!" And out of the room and up the stairs they go. In five seconds they're in the baby's room and have the light turned on.

It IS the baby! She's fallen out of bed. She worked a safety pin loose, wriggled around in the covers, got too close to the edge of the bed and fell. She's frightened and gasping for breath. Maybe she's hurt. Maybe she fell on her head. . . Pick her up QUICK! Hold her gently. Speak quietly to her. Tell her everything's all right. Mother's here, father's here, nothing's wrong. Baby just fell out of bed, that's all.

There, there! Now she's stopped crying. She isn't hurt. Just a bump on her forehead, no bones broken—just a drink. Straighten out her clothes, make up her bed, put her back in, soothe her with soft words, turn out the light and tip-toe out.

You think it's just a bit funny. All babies fall out of bed and are almost never hurt. . . Well, perhaps it IS a bit funny, as you look back on it. But it isn't funny at the time. Those young things are so precious, their soft little hands clinging so closely to a mother's, to a father's heart, that even the bare thought of something happening to them frightens two people into swift realization of how precious those babies are.

And draws fathers and mothers even closer together.

Europe Looks With Envy.
Eye Pan-American Meeting.
South American Countries Great.

By LESLIE EICHEL

Central Press Staff Writer

Europe probably looks with envy on the Inter-American conference at Buenos Aires, Argentina, which President Roosevelt will attend.

For two centuries at least an effort has been made to cause all the European nations to sit down at one table to discuss their problems. But hatreds have prevented.

Few Americans know Europe so well as does President Roosevelt. His "good neighbor" policy has been based on the contrary to what he has beheld in Europe.

And Europe may well look with envy. A united South and North America will be a formidable force in world affairs. The various countries, among themselves, not only can be a spearhead for democracy against fascism, but they can open up new avenues of trade among themselves and cause the democratic countries to be the most prosperous and self-sustaining of any in the world.

CORDELL HULL
One must salute Cordell Hull, a quiet, reserved man, who is startled by salutes, for the remarkable advancement of American foreign policy. The utmost simplicity with which the secretary of state proceeds takes away the glamor. It is likewise disarming to the chancelleries of the old world, steeped in centuries of intrigue.

It is disarming, also, to Japan, which has been penetrating Latin America with cheap goods.

GREAT COUNTRIES
One is apt to overlook the fact that such nations as Mexico, Brazil and Argentina are greater countries today than were the majority of European countries a century ago. Some of us may disagree with their political policies and measures—yet, they are democracies.

Fascism has been advancing in South America, in the largest of the nations, but one has reason to believe that it will not gain complete power. As long as the ballot remains inviolate, democracy can make a comeback.

Indeed, liberalism has been making some great gains in Latin America—and the presence of President Roosevelt at the head of the council table at the conference may throw the balance so strongly

Rev. McIlvaine Was War Prisoner In 1918

This Armistice Day must seem quiet and peaceful compared to that of November 11, 1918, to Dr. John J. McIlvaine, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. Today he resides in a peaceful community, serves the church of his choice as a minister of the Gospel, and has little cause to believe that his very life may be in danger.

It was different on November 11, 1918. On that day he was a prisoner of war in an officers' internment camp at Karlsruhe, Baden, Germany. With him were some six hundred other officers, some of them wounded, many of them sick and all of them wondering what was to come next.

Early in October, 1918, Rev. McIlvaine had gone out on an aerial photographic mission with five other officers. They had flown deep into Germany and about 95 miles inside the German lines their motor started to skip. To land meant capture and possible death and to keep flying meant a faint hope of getting back to the American lines. They took the chance.

For 50 or 60 miles it seemed that they might make it. Then without further ado the motor stalled, the plane went into a spin and crashed not 50 yards from the German trenches. All of them were taken prisoner and sent to Karlsruhe.

On November 13, 1918, the prison gates were thrown open and the Germans told them a revolution had broken out and that a republic was being formed. They were free to go.

Caution upon the part of older officers kept them at the prison. Had they left their chances of being attacked by mobs was good. In addition the sick and wounded men needed care and with his mates, Rev. McIlvaine stayed. A month later they were returned to the American forces safely.

rackets, would disturb the late Samuel Gompers. He would wonder how many splits union labor could stand, without permanent injury—especially if corporations and other big employers, now raising wages and co-operating with workers, should form on great "employers-workers' union," with fair pay, reasonable hours.

The nation might see a sort of industrial "samurai," like the organization of "two sword men," so useful at one period to Japan's upper classes. The "two swords" of the industrial samurai would be good pay and short hours.

LONG AGO the former German kaiser, now growing old peacefully in Holland, removed many French words and names from German bills of fare. The French menu became "peisier," "food card"; and so on down the long list of a la's.

Hitler, carrying the idea farther, wants only German names in science. The automobile becomes "kraftwagen," "power wagon," and perhaps because Prof. Einstein happens to be of Jewish origin, his relativity theory is to be changed from "relativitaetstheorie" to "bezuglichkeitsanschauungsgesetz," a word probably puzzling to some of the eight human beings supposed to understand the relativity theory, and almost as impressive as another German word, "Hotentotenpotentatenententat," meaning "an attack on the aunt of a Hotentot potentate."

THE ELECTION bringing new Democratic senators to Washington made it necessary for 14 to sit on the "other side" of the senate. The Republican party in that august body is now a small island entirely surrounded by Democrats.

Sentimental Republicans will be glad to know that the desk of Daniel Webster, oldest in the senate, still remains in Republican hands; Senator Hale, Republican, of Maine, who did not run this time, has that desk. The little group of Republicans must feel like the patriotic handful of Texans defending the Alamo.

campaign that there are still "a thousands things to do" and in his memorable speech in Madison Square Garden he said defiantly he had "just begun to fight" for a number of social and economic objectives. That still goes—but now there is no need for haste, and in the four years that stretch invitingly ahead of him he hopes to attain those objectives by a more orderly process than marked the hectic emergency days of the past four years.

Something of this thought was conveyed today to newspapermen who crowded about his desk and shot scores of questions at him covering almost every phase of administration policy, past, present, and future. His replies furnished a illuminating insight into the present temper of his administration.

No Undue Haste

There is going to be no undue haste about balancing the budget. Business is improving, unemployment is decreasing, government receipts are up, and while the president ardently desires a balanced budget at the earliest possible moment he isn't going to overturn heaven and earth to attain it, at least so long as things are on the upgrade.

There isn't going to be any monkeying with the tax structure for the present, at least. Business can proceed to make its plans secure in the knowledge that for the time being taxes remain "as is." In any event, there will be no increases. Any movement at all will be either downward, or in the direction of adjustments to correct inequities in the existing laws.

A radical shake-up is coming in the re-arrangement of government departments and bureaus, but there isn't going to be any hurry about it. Mr. Roosevelt knows there is overlapping in federal functions and considerable waste in money and effort. But he wants to be certain of his ground before making changes which he hopes will be of a permanent nature, which will preserve a maximum amount of governmental service with a minimum of cost and personnel. A committee is now completing a study of the situation and will report to him early in the new year.

To Use Caution

He is approaching with extreme caution the revival of the old NRA and the AAA. Both these structures were erected in the emergency days, and both were full of the flaws that usually go with wartime construction. When they are rebuilt he wants them to be along more solid, enduring lines, shock-proof against the supreme court.

The old NRA is dead and Mr. Roosevelt has no desire to see it rebuilt on the old framework. He does believe, however, that the basic principles and objectives of the NRA, such as shorter hours, higher wages, abolition of child labor and unfair trade practices, are highly desirable, even vital to modern economic life. They will be incorporated in whatever form the new legislation takes. But a leisurely approach will be made to it.

So with the triple A, the AAA is still going on, despite its invalidation by the supreme court. But the emergency soil conservation act that supplanted the AAA is a makeshift proposition and needs correction in numerous of its parts. He hopes new agricultural legislation can be written and enacted which will accomplish the objectives without again running afoul of the courts.

May Seek Amendment If, however, the supreme court continues to knock down New Deal legislation along these lines, then Mr. Roosevelt is grimly determined to go to the country for a constitutional amendment that will give the federal government specific authority to deal with problems of a social-economic character. Moreover, while he recognizes that the road to amending the constitution is a slow and tortuous one, he also believes that in view of the verdict of the country on November 3 there will not be any insurmountable difficulties in attaining the goal. In line with his policy of proceeding slowly, Mr. Roosevelt is deferring until around January 1 nearly all of the decisions that now press him. He has, for example, more than a score of important appointments pending—cabinet jobs, diplomatic jobs, administrative jobs—jobs of every character. He isn't going to fill any of them until the first of the year.

His budget is in the making. Likewise his relief estimates for the coming year. Early next week he will board a navy cruiser for a month's cruise to southern fishing grounds, and quite probably a dash to Buenos Aires to open the inter-American peace conference. In that month, and from a different perspective, he is going to make up his mind about a good many things that are now in the undecided stage.

He hopes to return to Washington about the first of the year and see inaugurated with him for his second term another "era of good feeling" that will be all-inclusive.

diary explosives hurled into the northwest section of the city started fires in the vicinity of the north station, when the rail route leads to North Spain and France.

Station Is Burned The North station was reported burned to the ground, with rebel forces marching across the Manzanares river on the ash trail of the fire, forging their way into the city from the northwest. A strong secondary Madrid line remains in the way of the rebels there, however.

It is impossible to penetrate the fire area, but from high buildings in the center of Madrid it seems that the inferno is still moving southward along the Manzanares river and deeper into Madrid. Shells from artillery emplacements beyond the canalized river screamed at three-minute intervals into the city, one smashing through the glass roof of the parliament (Cortes) building and exploding in the press gallery.

Art Treasures Threatened Grave fears were felt that fire or shells would destroy the priceless art treasures of Goya, Velasquez, El Greco and others in the nearby Prado Museum.

Each hour that passes, however, strengthens the positions of the Madrid defenders. Arrival of a column of reinforcements from Catalonia was announced today by the war ministry. Artillery and machine guns and rifles of the latest types accompanied them.

Arms from Catalan and foreign sources are pouring in every day. Unless the fire sweeps away the capital's defenses, it seems Madrid is saved, at least temporarily while the conflict settles into a dog fight. The loyalists are now in a position to stage strong counter-attacks.

The "nationalists" were forced to retreat in the Casa De Campo sector just west of the city under a bombing and machine gun attack by 18 Madrid airplanes.

Rebels carried a position near the Florida bridge, farther north, but the loyalists staged a strong counter-attack on the "nationalist" right flank at Villaverde, and all the Manzanares bridge-heads remain in loyalist hands.

Optimism In City

Despite the incessant bombardments, a wave of optimism swept over the city today as a result of the successful four-day defense of the Manzanares river.

Although the rebels launched a sharp attack again early today in the Casa De Campo sector, loyalist military leaders were confident it would be repulsed.

The capital's confidence was heightened by the frequent arrival of reinforcements from the south-east and Catalonia.

Among the reinforcements was a smart Catalan column commanded by a noted military leader, Buenaventura Durruti.

Aviation reinforcements are expected during the day. The impression prevailed among leaders of the loyalist military committee that the immediate danger to Madrid is past, and that a long campaign is just beginning.

"Will Defend To Last Man." (Copyright, 1936, by International News Service)

MADRID, Nov. 11.—Even though Madrid is left a shambles and its population decimated, the city will be defended to the last man against Generalissimo Francisco Franco's slowly advancing hordes.

This was the deft issued today by General Miaja, president of the military junta entrusted with defense of the capital, hurled in an exclusive interview with this correspondent as rebel guns continued to deal death and destruction and billows of smoke rose from fire-gutted sections of Madrid.

Liquor Dealers Given Warning

Liquor Industry Must "Police" Itself Against Ruinous Practices Or Suffer

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Nov. 11.—Pennsylvania's liquor industry, girding for a lobby drive at the regular session of the legislature in January, harkened today to a warning that it must "police itself" against ruinous practices or suffer the wrath of public opinion.

The warning was given by Chairman Walter T. Grosscup, of the State Liquor Control board, speaking before the first annual convention of the Pennsylvania Federation of Liquor Dealers.

Grosscup, whose resignation as liquor board chairman has been rumored recently, suggested the creation of a "dictating influence" such as that introduced into professional baseball, and the motion picture industries to keep the liquor industry "right with the public."

"The housecleaning must be done from inside," Grosscup declared in pointing to the "ruinous, ruthless, destructive competition and disorganization" of the liquor industry. He added:

"I am sure there is not a single person in the liquor business in America who does not recognize the truth of the statement that the industry, if it is going to succeed, must keep itself right with the public. Much more than either the moving picture industry, or baseball, or oil, or electrical manufacturers, the liquor industry needs a proper public relationship and a directing influence to dictate what can and cannot be done by individual competitors."

Supreme Court Hears Arguments On PWA Grants

Decision Of Court Is Expected In Mid-December—See Split Decision

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—The supreme court may split again in its decision on the first major Roosevelt administration case of the term, involving PWA grants to build public power plants, court observers believed today.

The case, appealed by the Duke Power Company to enjoin the Buzzard Roost Hydro-electric plant of Greenwood county, S. C., was taken under advisement by the court after four hours of argument. A decision is expected in mid-December. Justice Stone, who is ill, was vouched in the case so that he can take part in the decision.

Questions asked by the justices indicated to observers the possibility of a close division in the decision.

Relieve Unemployment

Solicitor-General Stanley Reed argued the general welfare clause of the constitution gave the secretary of interior, who is also administrator of the PWA, authority to loan 70 per cent and grant 30 per cent of the cost of the project, as a means of relieving unemployment.

Newton D. Baker, representing the Duke concern, contended that evidence showed the secretary made the grant because he believed the rates of the Duke Company were too high.

"He has decided to put the Duke Power Company out of business," said Baker.

He pointed to the statement of C. E. Rose, a PWA witness at trial of the case in the South Carolina federal court in which Rose said the PWA approved the Buzzard Roost plant because the Duke Power rates were too high.

Chrysler Melon Is $24,000,000

In commenting upon the corporation's increased earnings and the encouraging prospects for the balance of the year, Walter P. Chrysler, chairman of the board, pointed out that arrangements had previously been made for the distribution of approximately $4,000,000 to employees about the middle of December as extra compensation.

Pittsburgh Priests and Woman Parishoner Are Robbed Of $90 Cash And Jewels

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 11.—Police drag-nets were spread through the city today for three blundering young bandits who held up and robbed priests and a woman parishoner at St. Adelbert's Catholic church of $90 in cash and watches, but passed up another $2,000 in cash and jewels.

Described by the Rev. Joseph Frania as "young men," the trio overlooked Father Frania's pocket watch while taking his wrist watch and money. The parishoner also yielded a watch. Priests servants and the visitors were bound and gagged by the thugs, who apologized to Father Frania upon entering, with the greeting: "Sorry, Father, but this is a stick-up. We need $500."

GARDEN FORUM HAS NOVEMBER MEETING

An excellent program was presented at the meeting of the Garden Forum in the North Street school building, Monday evening. The Roll Call was answered with facts from the life of John Bartram.

Mrs. B. K. Thacker gave a talk on Viburnums, which showed excellent preparation. She discussed the universal appeals of the Viburnum in regard to use and adaptability. Lists were provided by Mrs. Thacker for reference, and as the talk progressed, the group was able to consider each type as to fruit, foliage, and proper planting conditions.

W. A. Hoffmaster gave a report on the Edenburg covered bridge, soon to be removed. He quoted from the records of the county commissioners, giving a quaint tale of its renovation in 1856 and subsequent litigation which arose and was finally settled in the satisfaction of all. On Hoffmaster farm at Edenburg, are two trees of note; one an oak tree known to have been standing in 1787, and the other an apple tree, said to have been planted by Johnny Appleseed.

Mrs. Alan Ingals gave an interesting talk on ants and their habits. Mrs. Ingals has devoted much time to the study of ants and her talk pertained in particular to the common garden variety to ants.

The Mahoning Valley Club was presented with the attendance prize by the Men's Garden Club.

Mrs. John Robinson had a number of interesting ferns which she identified and exhibited. In the absence of Mrs. W. C. Eckenrood, Mrs. W. A. Hoffmaster presided, and Mrs. Harry Studevant acted as recording secretary in the absence of Mrs. Paul Allen.

It was announced that Garden Club Day will be observed at the Florists' Flower Show, Thursday, November 12, at which time Forum members will act as hosts to visiting garden club members from Ohio and Pennsylvania.

The Conservation Committee's report on the bird show was of great interest to those in attendance. It has been requested by the Garden Forum, that those interested in protecting the birds leave food for them at the police station in order that it may be secured by Mr. Fox for the various feeding stations.

Milk Proposal Being Weighed

State Senator-Elect Heyburn Proposes Flat Wholesale Price For Entire State

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 11.—The state milk control board today was weighing the suggestion of State Senator-elect Weldon B. Heyburn, Concordville farmer, that milk be sold at a flat wholesale price per 100 pounds all over the state.

Heyburn endorsed the request of the Delaware county milk exchange for a separate milk shed including all of Chester and most of Delaware county, which was also taken under advisement by the control board. A spokesman for the exchange told the board he represented dealers willing to pay a flat rate of $2.55 per 100 pounds to farmers in that area.

"I can't see why the small distributor and the farmers who sell milk to him should not use the flat price system if they want it," Heyburn said. "I have heard farmers all over the state say that they want to sell milk on the flat price basis. Then they know exactly how much money to expect at the end of the month."

A business session occupied the evening with President W. Herbert Smith presiding. Mr. Smith appointed a group of special committees for various undertakings. The next session of the organization, comprised of the city's young business and professional men, will be held Monday evening, November 23. The junior chamber assembles the second and fourth Mondays of each month.

Good Tires Are Required

All Busses, Trucks And Taxis Must Have Good Tires After January 1

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Nov. 11.—No more smooth tires for Pennsylvania bus, truck and taxicab operators after January 1.

The public service commission announced a ruling today that operators of all such vehicles under its authority must maintain a "well-grooved tread not less than one-eighth inch in depth" on all tires. It's a safety measure, the commission said, and will affect 1,200 bus and taxicab operators and 5,000 truckers.

Social Security Move Due Here

Postmaster Steen Will Set Up Workers' File,
Washington Says

FIRST FORMS WILL BE MAILED SHORTLY

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Washington Correspondent,
The News

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 11.—Over the next few weeks Postmaster Richard A. Steen will establish in the New Castle post office a complete file of every worker in the New Castle postal district eligible to participate in the federal old age security plan.

As a part of this program, employers and employees are taxed. Then when workers reach the age of 65 they are entitled to receive pensions from the funds collected through this tax.

Forms Out On Monday

Beginning November 16, Postmaster Steen will distribute to all employers of the New Castle district a form known as "Employer's Application for Identification Number." This form will ask the employer seven simple questions, answers to which will enable the post office department to know how many employees' application forms to deliver to each employer.

Then beginning November 24, Postmaster Steen will distribute to employees, through their employers, forms known as "Application for Social Security Account Number." These employees' application forms will be distributed to all work places and will also be available, after such distribution, at the New Castle post office. Postmaster Steen will announce when they become available.

The employee's application is a simple form asking a few questions such as name and address, date and place of birth, and father's and mother's name. When the worker has filled in this form he may return it to Postmaster Steen, without paying any postage in any of five ways:

By handing it back to the employer; by handing it to any labor organization of which the worker is a member; by delivering it personally to the postmaster; or by mailing it, without postage, in a sealed envelope addressed simply, "Postmaster, Local."

After Postmaster Steen has received these cards from the workers he will set up a social security account for each person eligible to participate in the program, and he or she will be furnished with a card, comparable to an insurance identification card, certifying that an account has been set up and bearing the number of the account so as to make it easy for the worker to find out at any time just how his or her account stands.

These details on how Postmaster Steen will cooperate were made public by the Social Security board.

Turkeys Are More Plentiful

Bureau Of Agricultural Economics Reports 45 Per Cent More Gobblers

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Turkeys should be a lot cheaper this year than last, as well as other poultry and eggs.

The bureau of agriculture economics reported today there are 45 percent more gobblers this year than were raised last year. Marketings of the greater number of chickens hatched this year are also unusually heavy because of the feed shortage due to the drought.

But the bureau's forecast for 1937 is not so promising. "Low turkey prices relative to feed prices during the fall and winter of 1936-37 will discourage production in 1937," the bureau said. "Consumer demand for agriculture products is expected to be greater office. Postmaster Steen will announce when they become available."

The employee's application is a simple form asking a few questions such as name and address, date and place of birth, and father's and mother's name. When the worker has filled in this form he may return it to Postmaster Steen, without paying any postage in any of five ways:

Lions Club Bids 'Red' Williams Warm Farewell

Popular Singer, Leaving Soon,
Given Watch; Speaker
Also Heard

"Farewell—and all the luck in the world, Red!"

That, in effect, was the affectionate message the Lions club members chorused yesterday when they staged an informal send-off for Lion W. O. "Red" Williams, who leaves at the end of the week to make his home near Waynesburg, Pa. Williams has been a member of the club here since 1927.

To show "Red" they don't want him to forget them, though they spread many miles between them, the Lions gave him a handsome wrist watch.

Former District Governor and former President Ezra D. Marvin, speaking for the club, voiced its regrets on Mr. Williams' departure. Then he presented the watch.

When it came time for "Red" to reply and say his thank you it was a mighty hard job for him to do—and he chose a favorite song, "The House By the Side of the Road," to carry his deep feelings to his fellows. It was sung beautifully.

Mr. Williams since 1924 has been directing the song sessions of local Masonic bodies and in that fraternal group he is well known. Throughout the city he is known, for the name of "Red" Williams has often appeared on banquet and dinner programs of every kind. He has been the Lions song leader since 1927.

Fortunate are those who have heard him sing.

After the farewell yesterday the club heard Howard Brenner of the Brenner Jewelry company, Youngstown, speak on "Silver." His message was very enlightening.

School Minstrel Thrills Audience

At Franklin More Than 800 See Talented Cast Score In Show

PUPILS SAW SHOW AT TWO MATINEES

When it comes to minstrel shows, the Benjamin Franklin junior high school youngsters are "the tops" with audiences—and last night 800 more persons were lavishly entertained when they witnessed another of the "Ben Franklin Minstrels" in the school auditorium.

The public audience saw the show after two audiences of pupils had seen the performance earlier at matinees.

Last night's proceeds, those in charge made known, will go to purchase needed projection equipment for the school's auditorium.

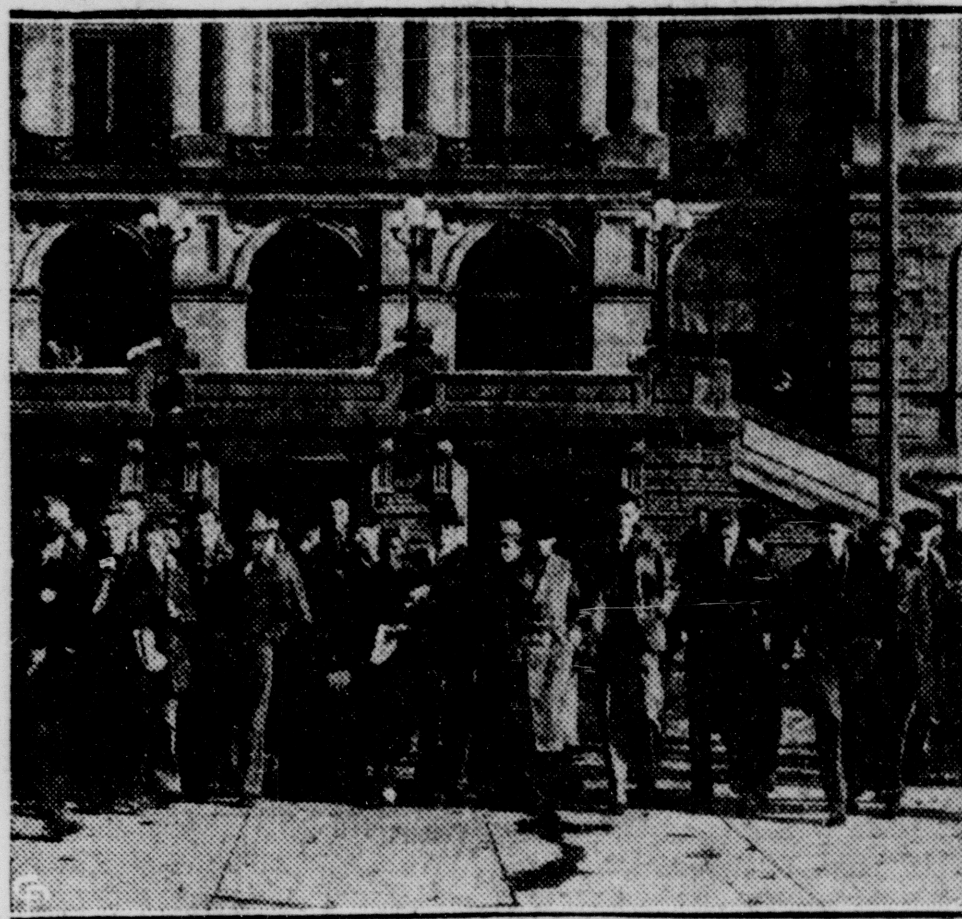

Every performer played his part well last night and from the very start to the close the applause of the audience was steady. There were few dull moments—if any—for it so happens the cast got a thorough rehearing from its faculty directors long before the first matinee was given.

The show marks another that will always ring to the credit of the talented Franklin pupils.

Program Of Evening
The minstrel program follows:

City Of 70,000 Without Schools

NO MORE SCHOOL FOR THESE STUDENTS

The nation's eyes turned to Springfield, O., a city of 70,000, when its school board closed its schools following the defeat of a 3-mill levy in the recent election. Not only were 12,200 school children turned adrift, but all the school teachers remained unpaid. Now a committee named by the county bar association is trying to solve the dilemma. High school students are shown outside locked school building.

Community Chest Unit Perfects Drive Plans

Organization plans for the 1936 Community Chest campaign's Larger Employed Group division were perfected at a dinner conference attended by 50 members of the division in The Castleton last night.

The meeting was the second pre-campaign session for the group which will contact the larger business organizations and transportation units of the city in next week's solicitation.

Presiding at the dinner was David S. Pyle, general chairman for this year's drive.

Mr. Pyle spoke briefly of the coming drive and Mayor Charles E. McGrath and Walter W. Duff, the Larger Employed Group division's leader, followed him with speeches that touched upon particular campaign plans. The mayor told of the "community party" which will take place in the Cathedral on Tuesday, November 17, the chest campaign's opening night, and Mr. Duff outlined more of the campaign set-up.

On Tuesday the Advanced Gifts division which W. Keith McAfee heads gathered for its first report meeting in The Castleton. Its second report session will be Thursday noon.

The city-wide campaign for $60,370 for eight of the city's social and welfare agencies will open at the Cathedral on Tuesday evening, November 17.

Would Evacuate All Americans In Inner Mongolia

(International News Service)
PEIPING, Nov. 11.—With 30,000 Mongols and Manchus battling Chinese government troops in Suiyuan Province, the Nanking government today warned representatives of American and other foreign powers to evacuate their nationals from the whole of inner Mongolia.

Supported by airplanes, tanks and armored cars, the Manchukuo troops swarmed into Suiyuan from Chahar Province for the second time in a week.

They were forced into a partial retreat after a fierce battle with loyalist Chinese troops, but more trouble is feared.

The planes were supplied by Japan and some of the military leaders of the invading forces were Japanese, according to Chinese charges.

Turkish prisoners, headed by those under sentence of death, made a massed appeal for a general amnesty without success. They pointed out that an amnesty would signalize more fully the national joy over the signing of the new Straits Convention. The government replied from Istanbul that it saw nothing in the Montreux Convention to justify an amnesty.

The life of the ordinary householdly it from ten to fifteen days.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Randomizing: Your reporter stepped out among the Quality Folks the other night to the shindig hurred by William Powell—not the actor, but a charming Park Avenue gentleman who knows everybody and girdles the globe periodically to write of far places for the glossier smartcharts. Your reporter was the only guest in muffled, misled by the words "very informal" on the bid. . . . Evidently very informal in such rarified stratas—the rooms were positively stuffy with fame—means that you can get by in a tuxedo, if you don't feel like donning tails. . . . But in "cits" you ought to use the tradesman's entrance. . . . By good luck I managed to walk in the front way; no doubt the blue shirt made the help think I was a detective sent to keep an eye on the ladies' jewels. . . .

There were Gene Tunney and Mrs. Tunney; John Gielgud, the "Hamlet" star; Emlyn Williams, the author and star of "Night Must Fall"; Helen Hayes; Lillian Gish and Dorothy Gish; Judith Anderson; Cole Porter; Hugh Walpole; Alfred Lunt and Lynn Farnam—but why try to list them? Everybody now in town of theatrical, literary or Socialite renown was there. I spent most of the evening talking to Gene Tunney. . . .

Gene has just come back from Europe and he is firm in his conviction that there will be no great war for 20 years. . . . He backs up this prophecy with an engaging logic. . . . "They're all armed, that's why. . . . Armed to the teeth; and so will we be in another few years. . . . The countries in Europe are all afraid of one another and all too poor to wage war, anyhow. . . . And listen: have you ever been around a camp where prize fighters are training?

Well, you may recall that there weren't any private fights. . . . Tempers didn't explode into fist-cuffs for the simple reason that everybody was at peak condition and nobody wanted to start anything. . . . I believe it's that way in Europe now, and a lot of this war talk is the bunk. . . .

And I'd like to reiterate that Mr. Gene Tunney, once heavyweight champion of the world, is no shallow poseur, for all his love of Shakespeare and his stubborn insistence that he is going to use his cranial equipment as best he can—even if that's bad etiquette for former prize fighters. . . . He was, as a matter of fact, one of the most intelligent people present at a highly cerebral convocation. . . . And it was very apt that he should be present at a party in honor of Mr. Gielgud, the Shakespearean actor. . . . I think few people are aware, too, that Gene and Jack Dempsey have mellowed into friendship with the years and the retired champion often drops in for a snack and a chat with the champion he deposed. . . .

There were a couple of counts, a princess and some assorted nobility also present. . . . O whole platoon of Hungarian nobility attended. . . . They are, for the most part, in the champagne business; the remaining descendants of the old crown families of Europe are to be found in New York, to judge from recent samples I have met, energetically selling the bubbly stuff. . . . The curious part of it is that they are making money. . . . The old saws about frayed and down-at-heels royalty existing in a state of semi-starvation in America seem to be outworn. . . . A good many of the Almanac de Gotha representatives are doing very nicely, thank you, under the whips of democratic competition. . . . You are constrained to wonder how many deposed politicians could do as well. . . .

managed a chat with Emlyn Williams, already mentioned in this space for his creepy and convincing performance as a crazed young murderer in the play, "Night Must Fall." . . . Young Mr. Williams had some pointed things to say about actors: "I have no respect for these actors who claim they don't read notices of their plays in the papers. For myself, I devour everything that is written about anything I play in, and I believe every other actor does the same thing. There are perhaps just two kinds of show people: those who claim they aren't interested in what is said about them and those who admit it. I like the latter variety."

Therefore I am sure of at least one avid reader of this column.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

AVOID DISEASES

NOT MANY children escape all communicable diseases, especially after they enter school. But cautious parents and alert teachers, especially when the school has a doctor and a nurse, are able to help children escape most of them. And it is a fact that the older a child is, as a rule, when he contracts one of the children's diseases, the better his chances for recovery.

James Frederick Rogers, M. D., has recently written a pamphlet for the U. S. office of education, "What Every Teacher Should Know About the Physical Condition of Her Pupils." This may be had of the United States superintendent of public documents, Washington, D. C., for 5 cents.

Dr. Rogers points out that discovery of signs and symptoms of communicable disease in its early stages by parents or teachers, may prevent bodily damage or save life.

Besides the general signs of listlessness, weakness, drowsiness, a flushed face, or undue pallor in a child, there may be complaints of headache, the signs of a cold in the head, sneezing, red and watering eyes. Or there may be coughing, vomiting or complaint of sore throat, an eruption of the face, neck or arms.

Lists Symptoms

Dr. Rogers adds: "The above list of first symptoms is not a long one and no special training is needed to discover them." Then he listed specific symptoms of the several leading children's communicable diseases which exist during school life.

"When a doctor is employed by the school, the teacher should see that he examines every pupil who, in her judgment, shows signs of serious general or local disease or defect. In schools which employ no physician, the teacher should ask the parents to have the child examined by a physician, and should encourage them to follow his advice."

Though I am not a doctor of medicine, I venture to add the following advice. Following recovery or apparent recovery from children's diseases, it is important for the child to be checked at several intervals by a physician, especially in respect to his ears, eyes, nose, throat and heart. I wish teachers would be especially vigilant to those children who return to school after illness. And I wish all of us might do our utmost to protect well children from communication with children who have such symptoms of ailments as Dr. Rogers describes.

On Court House Hill

Under the will of the late Samuel I. Kenney, which has been admitted to probate at the register and recorder's office all of decedent's estate is left to his sister, Mary Jane Kenney Dunn, John G. Smith of this city, Evelyn Smith.

County Commissioners George Boinger and Joseph Hannon made an inspection tour of the state line road yesterday. There had been some controversy over the widening of a short section, but the matter has been amicably adjusted, and the road will be improved over its entire length.

County Commissioners Clerk, William A. Eakin, reports that so far but two assessors have turned in their books for this year. As the triennial assessment is being made it takes longer than usual. It is expected that all the books will be in by December 1st, when the county commissioners will begin hearing appeals.

In Darlington, Beaver county, it is reported that the election board was called into court because several persons had voted at the precinct election who were not registered and from whom no affidavits were taken. The election judge explained "We know all the people who were not registered; they have lived in Darlington for years, and we did not need to take affidavits." That's one way of treating election laws.

Lawrence county assessors who are now making the triennial assessments run across some humorous situations. One of them tells of going to a farm house and inquiring of the man who answered his knock, how much he wanted for his farm. The farmer looked his visitor over a few seconds, and then inquired, "First I'd like to know something. Are you the new assessor or a real estate agent?"

Twelve executions on Home Owners' Loan Corporation mortgages are reported at the sheriff's office. The properties will be sold at the December term of court. This is the largest number of Home Owners' Loan mortgages to be foreclosed at any session of court. Heretofore there have been only seventeen foreclosures in all, and they have been scattered throughout the year. The persons whose properties have been seized have all been given ample notice but for one reason or another have failed to make payments of either principal or interest. It is claimed that some who obtained Home Owners Corporation loans have never made any effort to pay. Others have tried, but found it impossible to keep the payments up. There are at present nineteen executions in for December sale. The last day for filing is next Thursday.

Reports indicate that the 1937 legislature will be full of new members. In the 1932 election a delegation of 117 Democrats were swept into power in the lower house, most of them "first timers." In 1937 again there will be many more of them. Among them will be William Thomas, Farrell Democrat, former Westminster college basketball star and Farrell high school instructor. When the House convenes it is likely that Roy E. Furman of Greene county will be chosen speaker. He was elected without much opposition as speaker during the special session, succeeding William G. Sarig, who died last March.

Selection of a speaker pro tem in the Senate is expected to be more difficult. It will probably spell the political passing of John Tompsher, Republican, Lehigh, present pro tem speaker. Homsher, who is 77 years old, was elected to the house in 1900 and to the senate in 1908. Harvey Huffman, Democrat, of Stroudsburg is being mentioned for the place. He has served three and a half terms from Monroe county. Others mentioned from the standard list are Charles W. Sones, Lycoming county and Henry E. Lanius of York.

Into Democratic hands also will pass control of nearly one hundred jobs incidental to senate operation. They include the secretaryship, now held by A. Boyd Hamilton, the chief clerkship, the posts of librarian and sergeant-at-arms, and numerous minor jobs outside the salary class.

AROUND CITY HALL

An assessor apparently occupies the same status as a prophet in his own town, but this does not worry Assessor Shoaf. During a hearing of appeals Tuesday at city hall the writer said to Shoaf: "Better stand up so when you are knocked down you will fall into the chair." The assessor smiled and replied: "You know when I took this job I arrived at the opinion everyone would say the assessor was wrong, but so far I haven't had much trouble." It is reported by the assessors that council, acting as a board of revision, has reversed few of their assessments.

There are two bodies of municipal employees who were not off duty today between the hours of 10:30 a. m. and 12 noon, firemen and policemen. The firemen as yet have not received the benefit of a day off each week. However, the police commenced receiving a day off each week last September.

It will not be long now until members of council sharpen their pencils for the making of the 1937 budget.

Red Cross Roll Call In County District Starts

Chairman Of Rural Territory Open Campaign For Red Cross Memberships Today

Under the chairmanship of Archie Shoup, of Bessemer, and Alex McCready, of New Wilmington, the Red Cross Roll Call in the rural section of Lawrence county was started today and will last through Thanksgiving Day, supplementing the city campaign, which is now virtually over.

Several districts in the city remain to be canvassed, and this will be done this week.

Under the leadership of Ches Sweeney, a group of American Legion members will meet at the Legion Home, Friday afternoon, to canvass the West Side district.

Reports that were incomplete today, showed that $1,000 had already been turned in from the city Roll Call, and more is expected from this source.

Preparations are being made for an energetic campaign in Ellwood City, starting today, and Ellwood is expected to show its usual spirit with a substantial membership.

NEW CASTLE WOMAN NAMED SUPERVISOR

Closing the three-day conference held in The Castleton hotel, the Pennsylvania sections, National Council of Jewish Women, inducted their new officers on Tuesday afternoon, heard two outstanding speakers and passed a number of resolutions.

The final session started at noon with a banquet in The Castleton dining room, with Mrs. Gilbert G. Jacobosky presiding. Music was under the direction of Mrs. William Hinkson and Mrs. E. Kaplan. An unusual arrangement of flowers graced the table and unique place cards, the work of the art department of the senior high school, were at each plate.

Miss Rose M. Stein.

Miss Rose Stein, author of "M-Day," was the first speaker at the banquet and spoke on "A Realistic Approach to Peace." The peace forces have not failed," said Miss Stein, although she added "after 18 years the world stands more ready for war than it did in 1914." She traced the economic causes of war and declared that in the economies that must seek markets in other economies that must also seek markets, war must come. She offered the solution of more equitable distribution of the world's wealth as one solution.

Miss Cecelia Razovsky, associate director of the National Council of Jewish Women, spoke on "Rehabilitation of German refugees and Child Placement." She traced efforts being made to fit the refugees into the economic life by retraining and the educational advantages offered those who are denied the birthright in Germany.

Will Determine Workers' Status

Employe Groups Await Decision On Status On Pay Acceptance Conditions

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Nov. 11.—A determination was to be sought today by officials of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation as to the status of employe groups who have accepted the management's 10 per cent wage increase but have refused to sign the accompanying one-year contracts committing the workers to acceptance of revisions in pay to coincide with the rise or fall in the cost of living.

Benjamin F. Fairless, president of the largest of the U. S. Steel subsidiaries, left the question in doubt when he told members of the newly organized Pittsburgh-Youngstown district council of employe representatives that an adjudication on that issue must come "from the New York officials." At the same time Fairless expressed his personal disbelief that workers failing to sign the agreement would receive the pay boost.

Taking the cue from the gigantic Carnegie-Illinois corporation, which employs some 100,000 workers in the country, smaller steel plants fell in line with announcements of wage raises. In addition to those plants which last week announced raises, the following joined the parade within the last two days:

McKeesport Tin Plate company (3,200 employes); Wheeling Steel corporation (20,000 workers); Sharon Steel corporation (1,600 employes at Sharon, Pa. and Lowellville, O. plants); Central Iron and Steel Co., Harrisburg, Pa. and Harrisburg Steel corporation, Harrisburg.

In all instances the raise matched the approximate 10 per cent wage rise offered by Carnegie-Illinois.

Only other important development in the situation within the past few hours was the announcement by Carnegie-Illinois that about 10,000 of its "white collar" workers in the Pittsburgh, Youngstown, Chicago and Gary, Ind., offices of the company will soon be given a raise of slightly less than 10 per cent under a plan now being worked out. Previously the company had explained that the increase to mill workers included salaried employes working in the plants.

Further Plans For Y. W. Dinner

Committee Busy Arranging For Annual Gathering In Cathedral December 1

BEST POSTER TO WIN GERSON CUP

On Tuesday, December 1, New Castle is to have the honor of entertaining Mrs. Austin Kimball, president of the National Young Women's Christian Association, at the annual All-Association dinner in the Cathedral dining room with the entire membership of the association and all clubs and activities of the Y. W. C. A. present. Last year there were 849 present and this year it is hoped that many more of the general members will bring their tureen and hear Mrs. Kimball tell what other associations are doing in this country and in the 54 countries where the Y. W. C. A. works.

Poster Contest
The dinner committee has decided to present the Jack Gerson loving cup to the club whose members design and execute the best Y. W. C. A. poster or Y. W. C. A. club poster displayed at the dinner. The cup will be awarded for cleverness of design, skill and neatness of execution.

Several suggestions were made by the committee, which is made up of representatives from the 19 clubs and 6 departments of the association, but the poster contest seemed to fit into the rest of the program and to leave time for Mrs. Kimball's message. There will also be awards for the three clubs having the highest percentage of members in attendance at the dinner. All clubs will practice three songs to be used in group singing, "Love's on the Highway," "The Bells of St. Mary's" and "Follow the Glean." The Senior high school Girl Reserve chorus under the direction of Enzo Restivo, will sing two numbers. Mrs. Kimball is ex-president of the Buffalo, N. Y. association and was heard by a number of local delegates at the Y. W. C. A. conference in Cleveland two years ago.

Planning Committee
The planning committee is composed of the following representatives: Mrs. Charles Metzler, chairman; Mary Tewell, Blue Triangle club; Theresa Nicoletti, Square Circle; Adelaide Dute, Goodwill Graduate club; Viola Fligger, True Blue club; Jean Dufford and Beryl Morgan, Franklin Girl Reserves; Jane Martin and June Alexander, Mahoningtown Girl Reserves; Senior High Girl Reserves, Emily Lou Weir; Mrs. Rose Retort, Italian Mothers club; Lillian G. Young, Elm St. Senior Girl Reserves; Nellie Ostrowski, Energetic club; June Aubel and Hurley Robson, George Washington Girl Reserves; Ruth Raney, Union High Girl Reserves; Katie M. Ivory, Eva Bowles club; Betty Davis and Helen Wilkinson, Shenango High Girl Reserves; Mrs. Carrie Cobb, Elm St. chairman; Mrs. C. A. Balph; Miss Ethel Moore; Mrs. John Byers; and Miss Virginia Duff of the board of directors, and Mrs. Robert Eckles, president.

Mrs. Metzler will announce later the church representatives who will have charge of the general membership not in clubs.

OH THANKS! MR. DOYLE, THANK YOU, MISS.

AND THANKS TO MIDOL! IT HAS SAVED THE DAY MANY TIMES—FOR MANY WOMEN.

A knowing woman no longer gives in to periodic pain. It's rather old-fashioned to suffer in silence, because there is a reliable remedy for such suffering.

Some women who have always had the hardest time are relieved by Midol.

Many who use Midol do not feel one twinge of pain, or even a moment's discomfort during the entire period.

Don't let the calendar regulate your activities! Don't "favor yourself" or "save yourself" on certain days of every month! Keep going, and keep comfortable—with the aid of Midol. These tablets provide a proven means for the relief of such pain, so why endure suffering Midol might spare you?

Midol's relief is so swift, you may think it is a narcotic. It's not. And its relief is prolonged; two tablets see you through your worst day.

Would you like to enjoy a new freedom? Then try Midol—in a trim little aluminum case at any drug store.

GOVERNMENT TO BORROW ANOTHER HUGE SUM

Financing Is Being Planned

May Borrow Billion And Half In December To Meet Government Needs

PART OF PROGRAM IS REFINANCING

By ERIC FRIEDHEIM
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—A new federal financing operation involving the borrowing of approximately $1,500,000,000 is being considered by the treasury.

High fiscal authorities conceded today that the government may be required to raise considerably more new cash in the forthcoming December 15 financing program than had been anticipated by President Roosevelt in his recent supplemental budget estimate.

When this estimate was made early in September, the president indicated new cash borrowings would be limited to $750,000,000 during the remainder of the current fiscal year which ends next June.

On September 15 the treasury borrowed $450,000,000 new money and at that time Secretary Morgenthau expressed the hope that it would not be necessary to seek more than $300,000,000 additional.

High Disbursements
Continuing high federal disbursements, however, have reduced the treasury's cash balance to $1,185,000,000. Between now and December 15 expenditures are expected to exceed $1,000,000,000 in tax receipts during this period are not expected to aggregate more than $600,000,000, the government cash reserve will have shrunk to about $750,000,000 by the middle of December.

On December 15, the treasury must pay off in cash $400,000,000 of short term notes which were issued earlier this year to raise money for soldiers' bonus payments.

If the treasury borrows only $300,000,000 it will have but $650,000,000 remaining in its cash balance after liquidating the $400,000,000 short term notes.

It is not likely that the treasury will operate with such a small cash margin. For a long time the administration has maintained at least $1,000,000,000 unencumbered money on hand to safeguard against any emergency in Europe.

May Borrow $700,000,000
Officials indicated that the treasury probably will borrow a minimum of $700,000,000 in cash and admitted this figure might be raised to $1,000,000,000.

Since government financing operations are carried forward on a quarterly basis enough cash must be raised in December to meet expenditures until the following March. Currently the government spends about one dollar for every 75 cents it takes in.

Another note issue, totalling $357,000,000 becomes due December 15. These maturities will be refinanced by giving holders new securities in exchange. It is possible that the treasury may also refinance $428,000,000 in notes which mature February 15. Flotation of $1,000,000,000 in cash securities and refinancing of these two note issues would involve a borrowing operation in December of $1,775,000,000.

Because of the huge reservoir of idle money reflected in the mounting excess bank reserves, the treasury will have no difficulty in obtaining huge oversubscriptions of any new securities offerings.

SOME PROJECTS OFF
All administrative personnel of the WPA is working today, although some projects are off. The men on the projects were advised that they could make up lost time today if they wished, and as a result most of the projects are at work. The sewing project and educational projects are idle today.

Will Have Roles In Senior Play

Misses Henderson And Slaver Selected For Cast Of "Seven Chances"

Mary Ellen Henderson

Mary Ellen Henderson has been selected for the role of Mrs. Garrison in the senior high school's "Seven Chances." She is the wife of her hen-pecked husband, who is to his bachelor friends a living danger-sign on the matrimonial highway. Mrs. Garrison's character is a potent reason why one of these bachelor friends, the leading man of the comedy, has put off all thought of courting until unusual circumstances force him to telescope several years of experience in this line into one evening. Mary Ellen's part requires her to create for the stage an over-bearing, nagging woman to act as a foil for the hero's "lucky seventh."

Miss Henderson, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. E. F. Henderson, of Lincoln avenue, is one of the popular and able members of the January graduating class. She is the president of Senatus Romanus, a high honor student, and an elected session-room representative; she has a place on the student-council and on the "Ne-Ca-Hi" staff; and is a member of the Girl Reserves. Playing as Ann, the hero's "lucky seventh" in the comedy, "Seven Chances" is Elizabeth Slaver. This is a role to satisfy the most romantic student-actor. A delightful person is Ann, pleasantly and understandingly in love with the hero, who does not readily perceive the situation or the equally important fact that he is really in love with her. Still involved in this romantic fog, Ann's hero resolves to marry. And there are the ingredients for a good plot.

Miss Elizabeth Slaver is one of the well-known members of the June graduating class. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Slaver, of East Moody avenue.

Reopened Bridge Is Traffic Aid

Center Obstruction Is Removed From West Washington Street Bridge

Traffic to and from the West Side is now handled with much more safety and rapidity since the center obstruction has been removed, and an amesite surface applied to the West Washington street bridge over the Shenango river.

The bridge was opened to traffic at 5 o'clock Monday evening, after being closed since the preceding Tuesday because of the repairs. The center obstruction has been removed and the entire bridge is now passable to automobiles, and it is without a doubt a great boon to motorists of the West Side.

The two lanes on each side of the bridge remain concrete just as they have been for the past several years, but the center has received an am-site surface and will help greatly during the winter months to avert automobiles from sliding.

Armistice Day — Peace — The World Wonders and Prepares — For What?

Heavy—the tramp of marching feet
Thunderous—the boom of drums that beat
Patriots—in heart and mind
Proud—the loved ones left behind

How brave, each watching mother thought
As eagerly her son she sought
While file on file swept by—was gone
Leaving empty homes—an empty dawn

For many fell—no one knew where
Nor who the dead were—fallen there
Honored were they for help in a cause
Aimed to close War's slaving jaws

Less than a score of years have flown
Since costly seeds of peace were sown
But all the gardeners have erred
The flowers of peace have hardly stirred

Fail not to recall that fatal spring
When brave young men marched off with a swing
Remember too how they returned
Hopeful a lesson had been learned

Let the sacrifices they have made
Make us slow to engage the spade
Of the grave digger for his grisly task
Of covering the dead with earth's brown mask

Public Chiseler Number One Held In Philadelphia

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 11.—Upon the 11th, elderly Paul Berrers authorities here today conferred the title of Philadelphia's "public chiseler No. 1."
Berrers, held in $1,000 bail for court on a shop-lifting charge, admitted to police magistrate Charles Medway that he has lived by petty chiseling for the last eleven years and had only been arrested once. "You were lucky to get away with it so long," remarked the magistrate, referring to the thousands of dollars' worth of things Berrers had lifted from stores, the patch-up theatre tickets and thousands of old trolley transfers he had used.

WASHINGTON AT A GLANCE

See Change In United States

Modern Necessity Is Forcing Change In Country, Stewart Believes

OLD FOLKS HAVE NOT KEPT PACE

Central Press
Washington Bureau
602 Times-Herald Bldg.
By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—The recent election result suggests that perhaps the United States has been undergoing a transformation which we of the older generation, at least, have not realized was progressing—and now, all at once, we find it transformed.

Old time Republicans, analyzing the figures, arrive at the conclusion that the G. O. P. had the bad luck to run into a depression, for which it was blamed, unjustifiably, they say. Now, they continue, the Democrats have had the good luck to run into the beginnings of recovery, for which they are no more entitled to credit, although they get it, than then the G. O. P. was deserving, according to its veteran spokesmen, of blame for the depression.

It is true that the Republicans, since the Civil war, have had a record of more prosperous administrations, generally speaking, than the Democrats.

The Democrats have argued that the Republicans, when in power, have engineered unhealthy booms, leaving Democratic administrations, succeeding them, to bear the responsibility for consequent slumps that they did not cause, but could not, after so much previous Republican mismanagement, avert.

"DEPRESSION"—FOR G. O. P.

Of late, present day Republicans reason, the luck has changed—the G. O. P. is having a depression streak, through no fault of its own, while the Democrats are having a prosperity streak, equally due to none of its own merits.
There probably is something in this theory of pure luck-and-chance. The average voter doubtless is likely to cast his ballot for the party in office when conditions are picking up or are outright good, and to cast his ballot against the party under whose auspices he recently has experienced adversity.

A NEW PSYCHOLOGY?

There are hints, however, that the explanation of the situation lies deeper than that.
Has not the country arrived at a new psychology?
It is a safe guess that it has been moving TOWARD it for three or four decades—but now, has not it ARRIVED?

HOW IT WORKED

When I was a schoolboy an urban workingman who did not like his lot, trekked out into the west and pre-empted a farm.

He was not necessarily a good farmer. Perhaps he never produced a paying crop. Nevertheless the country was filling up so fast that he grew rich, simply from the increase in the demand for his land. He could not do much with it, maybe, but others desired it. It bulged in price because of the competition of would-be purchasers.

Even good farmers were tempted by extravagant offers, into selling. They did sell, taking mortgages, and retired to southern California. Mortgages and tenants succeeded them.

ROOM—BUT MONOPOLIZED

There was an epidemic of this sort of thing just after the World war, but it had been going on gradually for a generation.
There had ceased to be an outlet for growing population for half a generation before the World war. The United States census bureau warned in 1890 that the United States had no more free land. President Theodore Roosevelt gave warning of it too.

Nobody paid much attention. There is room enough, heaven knows, but it is monopolized.

LIBERALS NOW?

Have we known it, however? No farther back than President Hoover's day, Senator Burton K. Wheeler, who certainly would not have been considered a reactionary, told me of the United States, "We are the most conservative people in the world."

It looked like it then.

Now, however, haven't we turned liberal?

Oppressed urban workers? Mortgagees? Tenants? Peons?

Liberals? Not to say radicals?

We used to be a conservative country.

Now, seemingly, we are a more or less radical one.

We do not seem to appreciate the change.

Pitt Panthers To Start West

Pitt Team Will Practice In Chicago; Will Reach Omaha Friday

PLAY NEBRASKA ON SATURDAY

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Nov. 11.—While their coaches worried about their hospital lists, both Duquesne and Carnegie Tech put on the pressure today and went through some of the roughest and toughest scrimmages of the season in preparation for the annual battle for the city football crown.

More stiff sessions were slated for the remainder of the week as the coaching staffs seek to point their proteges toward their highest level of the campaign.

On the Duke campus, "Clipper" Smith was concerned over Beto Vairo, George Matsik and Frank Zoppetti. All three were in uniform again but participated in only the lighter workouts. Coach Smith has definitely assigned the left guard job, vacated by the dismissal of big Johnny Perko, to swarthy Art Amann.

Three Criples Carnegie is disturbed about Captain Nestor Henrich, Earl Hudson and Jerry Matelan. All are victims of battered legs but Coach Harpster has high hopes of using all the lads in the big Saturday game.

The Pitt Panthers, after a curtailed week of practice, will clamber aboard a train tonight for the first part of their long trek to Lincoln, Nebraska. The locals will workout in Chicago tomorrow. Friday will see them in Omaha where they will remain until a short time before the opening kick-off.

BATTLE TODAY (International News Service) LOS ANGELES, Nov. 11.—Loyola University and Texas Tech were primed to resume intercollegiate gridiron warfare here today before 40,000 fans. Although Loyola has won the last two duels, the Red Raiders were installed as 7 to 5 favorites.

FIRST PRESBYTERIANS Tonight at the Y. M. C. A. floor at 7:45 o'clock the First Presbyterians of the New Castle church basketball league will have their first practice session. All of the young men who intend to report for the team are asked to be present.

Grovers Prepare For Ithaca Game

GROVE CITY, Nov. 11.—Scrimmage will be taboo this week on the Grove City practice field, as Coach Bill Amos plans to polish up the Crimson attack and to take no chances on further injuries, so disastrous this season. With a two-week rest since the last game, the Grovers are now in their best physical condition since the Wash-Jeff fray, and Amos will take no chances with rough work this week.

Fred Laderer and Ray Brunton, ends, returned to action yesterday and will be available for duty against Ithaca here Saturday. So is Joe DePrima, tackle, who has seen no action since the second game of the year. However, Abe Mori, fullback, will not be used, as Coach Amos plans to give the veteran another week's rest to have him in shape for the final game with Thiel.

With little information on the Ithaca system, other than data on the 13-13 deadlock played here last season, Coach Amos started the week's work by emphasizing offense. Plays will be polished up, and most of the daily sessions this week will be given over to signal drills. In Mori's absence Patterson is assigned the fullback post, with Bob Schoch at left half and O'Mahoney and Bingham at right half. Amos is using Stanford, freshman quarterback, as a first-string selection, with Mathis and Morris also being groomed for service.

Fordham Has Great Line

Coach Crowley Expounds Virtues Of His Linemen; Best He Has Ever Had

MEET GEORGIA ON SATURDAY

By DAVIS J. WELSH
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—They pulled one out of the hat against Southern Methodist, tied Pittsburgh and beat St. Mary's, and Purdue, the latter most impressively. Georgia apparently hasn't anything this time except the peach crop and N. Y. U., the final opponent, is composed of baffled young men, trying very hard to reconcile the Yale tradition with what they remember of the Fulton Fish Market. So I don't really suppose anybody can stop the Fordham boys now, unless it's their head coach. He's a great head coach, only I think he's talking not wisely, but too often.

Have Great Line "We have the greatest line I've ever seen," Jimmy Crowley tells interviewers, and when they ask him, "who's your best man?" he says he doesn't know, because they're all so good.

Tell that often enough to a lot of twenty-year-olds and the first thing you know, they'll think you're inviting them to report for callisthenics. They'll stop on you and it will be difficult to make them start again, especially after they learn that Coach Steve Owen, of the Pro Giants, has been winning at the Rose Bowl even before they've invited and the New York sports writers are all for having them down to dinner at the White House.

I'm not even certain I agree with everything that's being said, notably about the best line Jimmy Crowley ever saw. The best attacking line he ever saw was the Seven Mules of 1924, behind whom he happened to be playing, and I suspect that if all concerned could see more of Wideseth of Minnesota, they might speak less of Franco. The latter's defensive genius and, against Purdue, he sifted through as though nobody was there. As a matter of fact, I'm beginning to wonder whether anybody was. It seemed too easy to be quite right in the Fordham line, either ran right in among the Purdue backfield or its charge made the Purdue line bulge back so far on end sweeps that Isbell and Stalcup were forced to go deep to get rid of their own blockers.

Meet Georgia That sort of things doesn't suggest first rate opposition and on the face of things, Georgia won't supply it, either. However, no Georgia team is ever so bad that it can't make a fight of it with somebody who isn't fighting and, the way they've been working on Fordham in the news column this week, I'll be surprised if the young men don't get to thinking that this Georgia ball game is just a breeze. Maybe it is, at that, only I'd like to point out that no breeze ever hits you a clout across the middle with some reinforced leather that's full of lead.

Nine Intramural Sports Are Listed

(Special To The News) NEW WILMINGTON, Nov. 11.—Nine sports are listed on the intramural sports schedule at Westminster this year, under the supervision of Jack Hulme, trainer and director of the intramural program, who came to Westminster ten years ago as swimming instructor.

When Hulme came to Westminster, varsity sports made up the entire physical education department, men went out for varsity sports or none at all. Hulme set out in 1925 to develop a program that would give every man some seasonal sport to play. Beginning with basketball, the favorite sport at Westminster, he organized fraternity and non-fraternity teams in almost every type of organized game.

In addition to touch-football and basketball, the leading men's intramural sports, ping-pong and horse-shoes have been introduced. Over 90 per cent of men now participate in at least one organized intramural sport.

With soccer, touch-football, horse-shoes and volleyball completed for this fall, plans are being made for competition in badminton, tennis, mushball, basketball and ping-pong.

An educated game that the children will love when you want to keep them quiet for a time on a hot day. Have outline maps of the United States, or Canada, and ask the children to write in the names of states or provinces correctly.

CAN SHARON HI CHASE "JINX"?

The New Castle crippled list has a new member today. Harvey Jokinen, the right guard, who has played a bangup game all year, reported with a hip injury and will be forced to the sidelines for the game with Sharon high this coming Saturday. Mumford, Cox and Perrett are the others nursing injuries. Of this trio Perrett will not be in the Sharon game, but there is a likelihood that Leroy Cox and Dal Mumford will see action in at least part of the game. With DeCaprio through, the passing will more than likely fall to Mumford if he is inserted in the lineup. Mumford is also a fine punter. The punting in the past few games has been done by Paikovich. Mumford suffered a twisted knee and ankle in the Warren game. Just who will get the call for the guard post left vacant by Jokinen is not known for certain, but there is a possibility that Jimmy Howley will be called upon to fill the bill. He is a hard working young man and a former center candidate.

What To Do? Head Coach Phil Bridenbaugh does not have an easy time this week in getting the "Red Hurricane" ready for the invasion of Sharon next Saturday. The Sharons would be tough enough to meet with a full lineup but with his gang of cripples on hand, "Gloomy Phil" is gloomier than ever. The outlook for this week is none too rosy. Sharon has a team every bit as good as Martins Ferry and just as big. Another thing, Sharon would like to chase this pesky "jinx" that has been following them in the games with New Castle, and for that reason the boys who wear the big orange jerseys are going to fight all the harder. It looks like a great game this week.

Former Titan Floor Star Is Shot In Leg

Pete Leyschock, former Westminster college and Farrell high floor star, is in the Buhl hospital, with severe gunshot wounds in his right leg as the result of a hunting accident. He was shot while hunting with his father, former Mercer County Detective Sam Leyschock, in woods near Mercer, Pa.

Still, if he had wealth enough for everybody to have a million, we'd still hate the fellow who had forty million.

Allegheny Last Foe For Titans

Game To Be Played Saturday At Meadville; Titans In Good Shape

GOOD GAME IS BEING FORECAST

(Special To The News) NEW WILMINGTON, Nov. 11.—The Westminster Titans play their last game of the season, when they travel to Meadville Saturday, to oppose the Allegheny Gators. Eight Titan seniors will play their last game for the blue and white.

All of the Allegheny games this season have been close, won by one touchdown decisions, with the result that little is known of the Gators' offensive power. Although Coach Lawrence's eleven has registered but one win, 6-0 over Hiram, they are fast and alert, and on a dry field are capable of outplaying a heavier team. Allegheny has dropped games to Oberlin and Thiel by 6-0 scores, and tied with Grove City 0-0.

The Titans, on the other hand, are experiencing a short winning streak of two games, after dropping the first four of the season. With victories over Thiel 13-6, and Edinboro 33-16, safely tucked away, the Titans are anxious to capture the Allegheny tilt more than any other game, a 3-won and 4-lost record would be better than last year's count for the Titans.

A 100 per cent improvement was noticeable in the Westminster backfield in the Edinboro game. Fumbles, uncertainty of signals, and slowness in getting under way were absent. Lapocki, Brown, Shoup, Laraway, Bailey and McGeech worked in top form punctuating the Raider defense.

Eight Titans will end their football careers at Westminster in the Allegheny game. Brown, Bailey, Mintz and Laraway, in the backfield; and Butler, Harder, Krulatz, and Douds in the line. Mintz, Laraway and Bailey have four years of play to their credit, and Coach Roark will find it hard to replace these veterans next year.

Independent Teams Battling For Lead

Much Interest Being Manifested In Independent League Circles

Two of the leading Independent grid teams in this district are the Wabash Bears and Colalucas, who have yet to taste the pill of defeat. There is lots of interest in the league.

The Colalucas managed to jump into the limelight by gaining a 7-6 triumph over the Kopple eleven. Beaver County champs, The E. & A. grounds will dominate the spotlight where the Bears are called to oppose the Beaver Falls gridders. Sunday, Frisco will play the Colalucas at Centennial field, Sunday afternoon. Below is the record of the four teams in the two counties battling for Independent league honors:

Godoy Favored To Beat Ettore

(International News Service) NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Arturo Godoy, the large and tremendously industrious importation from the Argentine, was granted a scant edge today in the wagering over Al Ettore, equally energetic Philadelphia Italian, for their 10-round heavyweight bout at the Hippodrome tonight.

For the Philadelphia it will be in the nature of a comeback attempt. After piling up an impressive record, which included three straight victories over Leroy Haynes, Ettore met Louis and was belted out in five rounds. That defeat alone sends him into the ring as the under-dog, for in Godoy's first New York appearance, two weeks ago, he was held to a draw by Haynes.

Arturo Godoy, Argentine heavyweight, was made favorite to defeat Al Ettore, Philadel. la Italian, in tonight's 10-rounder at New York. New York Rangers defeated Maroons 4 to 1 in national hockey league opener at Montreal.

icipation in sport, he has seen many athletes of all lines come and go.

Jimmy Johnston, Madison Square Garden, New York, has put forward John Henry Lewis, world's light-heavyweight champion as contender number one for the championship of the world. He said he would appeal to the New York state boxing commission to substitute Lewis for Max Schmeling as champion James J. Braddock's opponent next summer. "If Schmeling won the title and took it to Germany none of our boys would be able to fight him there. And if they did they couldn't get a nickel out of Germany. We ought to keep the title in America anyway," Johnston added.

Eddie Davis, Troy A. C., Youngstown, who fought at the Arena Gardens here, defeated Bert Carlson of the Columbus club, Youngstown, in the Diamond belt tourney last night at Youngstown. They fought as lightweights. In the middleweight division Frankie Kerrick, who dropped a close decision to Ray Gray here, won from Victor Arnold of the Bonovich A. C., Youngstown and in the light-heavyweight division Julius Walters of the Columbus club, who fought Mickey Rubin, lost to Steve Ignath. All of the bouts were semi-finals. The finals will be fought next week.

Etta Kett, owned at Rochester, Mich., and Knight Bachelor, of Atlanta, Ga., repeated their 1935 triumphs successfully defended their laurels in the National Horse show yesterday at New York. Etta Kett was ridden by Wallace Bailey and won the three gaited saddle award for horses under 152 hands while the Knight took the measure of Shalimar for the best harness horse.

Having scored an upset when they beat Lafayette last Saturday Washington and Jefferson are pointing for their game with Wooster at Wooster Saturday. Then handed Lafayette a 31-6 lacing although injuries cost them the services of Tony Sleski, Warwood, W. Va., guard. Wooster is the oldest rival W. & J. has.

"I realize that all I am, and all that I hope to be in the future" I owe to the amateur game" said Fred Perry brilliant tennis player, at Los Angeles after turning professional. He said that Ellsworth Vines of Pasadena, another amateur who turned professional will meet in singles matches and two other players are to be added to the troupe for doubles.

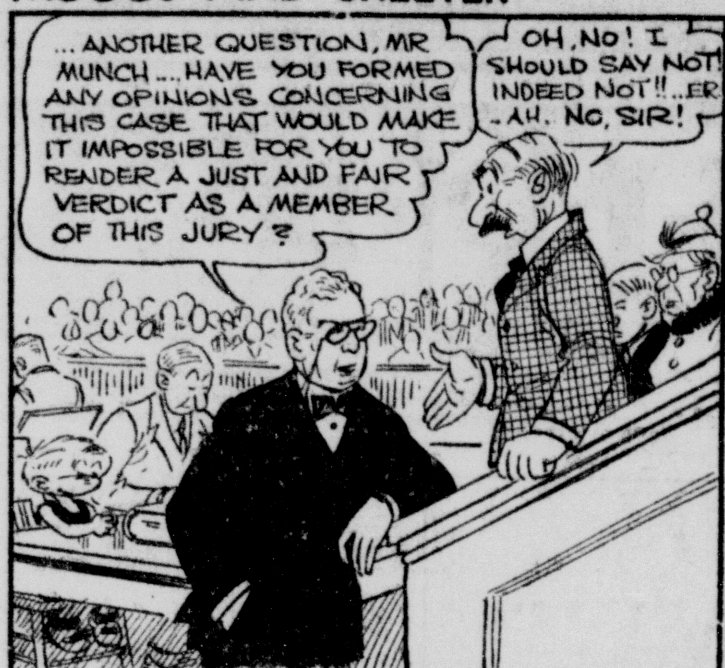

Invitations have been sent to 12 colleges to play the third annual Orange bowl football game at Miami, Fla., New Year's day. Six of the "feeler" were sent to southern schools, five to eastern colleges and one to a midwestern institution. Among those who have been given a bid is Pitt.

Coach Jack Chevigny, of Texas U will not return to the Longhorns next year. Mary Brantley, former southern and Florida state champion, has returned to golf at Jacksonville, after 18 months inactivity. Sam Agee and Joe Agee, half-back and fullback, on the Vanderbilt team are cousins. Marmara, heavily backed won the fifth race by two and a half lengths from My Colin at Narragansett Park, R. Mrs. Anna Halpin is manager of an amusement park in New York state. She has been connected with amusement parks since she was five years old, for her uncle owned one.
